MYCIN – An Expert System
• MYCIN is an early AI program, for treating blood infections.
• MYCIN diagnoses patients based on reported symptoms and medical test results.
• The program could request further information concerning the patient, as well as suggest additional laboratory tests, to arrive at a probable diagnosis, after which it would recommend a course of treatment.
• MYCIN would explain the reasoning that led to its diagnosis and recommendation.
• MYCIN operated at roughly the same level of competence as human specialists in blood infections and rather better than general practitioners.

Alan Turing and Intelligent Machine
Alan Turing gave the earliest public lecture (London, 1947) to mention computer intelligence, saying, "What we want is a machine that can learn from experience.". In 1948 he introduced many of the central concepts of AI in a report entitled "Intelligent Machinery." However, Turing did not publish this paper, and many of his ideas were later reinvented by others.
